The hope of the world lies more than ever today in the future citizens who will bring hope and peace to it, who will understand others and themselves, who will preach and practice simple democracy and brotherly love.

If we are to create such people, the schools of the present must play an important part. It is the belief of the editors that the High School of Commerce is playing such a role day in, day out, in such a fashioning of the future.

The time-honored Caduceus on the cover symbolizes the work of this school, for it represents the staff of Mercury, the god of commerce. Together with the school's motto "Industry and Integrity," it suggests the attempt to prepare students for a life of practical service that involves productive work and honesty.

But the High School of Commerce gives more, too. Through its varied classes and its multitude of activities, it develops co-operation, courtesy, social ease, and responsibility.

To demonstrate how these and other needed qualities are instilled in students and how they help make happy, successful, and useful citizens is the purpose of this book.

Individuals Make Own Success; Schools Only Help, Says Principal

DR. OSCAR Y. GAMEL
Principal
General Organization
Board Chairman

I am deeply impressed by the question "How does the High School of Commerce produce happy, successful, and useful citizens?"

Human nature being what it is, no school can lay a valid claim to "producing" citizens. A school is made up of individuals selected and organized to carry on activities which are related to growth in citizenship. When the individuals are so disposed, these activities go along in good fashion and the participant grows in those habits, attitudes, knowledge and skill which taken collectively, may be said to represent a "happy, successful and useful citizen." No one should ever forget that such citizens are developed out of the crucible of personal experience. Schools and other institutions and individuals only assist in the process.

Classes In Action

There's A Reason . . .

There's a reason why the High School of Commerce customarily places ninety-five per cent or more of its seniors in good paying jobs by graduation time. There's a reason why an average of fifteen per cent of the graduates are admitted to excellent institutions of higher learning. There's a reason why Commerce students go out enriched to their jobs and schools. That reason is the high caliber of instruction which takes place at this school.

Furnished the proper books and equipment by a generous city, Commerce teachers make the best of their academic riches, as the program focuses on both the academic and the practical.

The photographs which follow of classes in action show how Commerce students and teachers use the excellent facilities at their disposal. They show how this school fulfills its function of turning out graduates who can gain material success, and even more importantly, acquire that spiritual success which comes from making a worthwhile contribution to mankind through knowledge and understanding.

Business Department Offers Skill and Ethical Training

Flying fingers here get swift and accurate results on the adding machines, as Mr. Charles Oswald watches the operation on his Machine Calculation Class.

Commerce's efficient business training is one of the main reasons why its graduates are in high demand in industry, stores, and offices.

Accuracy and neatness are stressed, as well as learning new techniques and the operation of new machines. Bookkeeping courses train students in accounting practices and in the General Organization class, students handle thousands of dollars of Commerce's money.

Clerical Practice gives experience in record-keeping, use of business forms, and filing, while Business Law teaches future office managers knowledge of and respect for the law.

Salesmanship promotes honest and effective selling, filing gives training in keeping orderly records, and Penmanship insures that the records will be legible and neat.

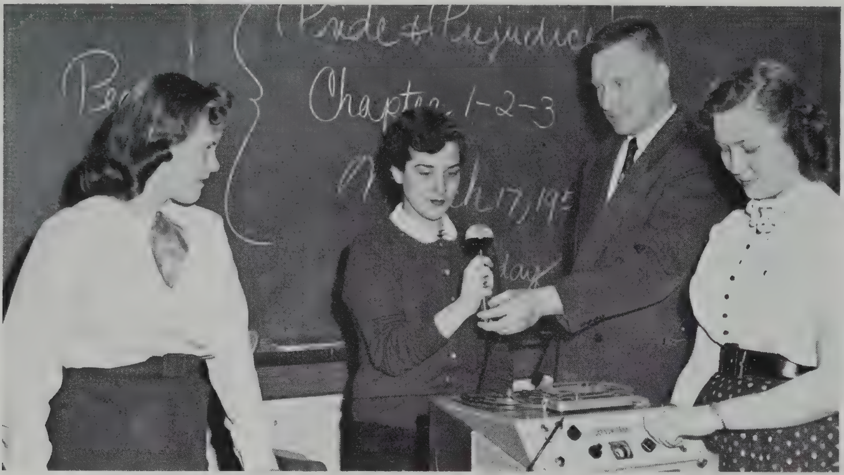
The stress always is on business as an aid to the public in providing goods and services in an efficient and ethical manner.

"Take a Letter—and Do It Right" Is Secretarial Rule

The voice of the boss is heard and heeded as these future secretaries get practical experience in taking dictation from Ediphone recordings.

Here is the department which turns out the boss's right-hand men and women—the secretaries. Demanding precision in English and a high degree of common sense, the secretarial department promotes skill in shorthand, typing, and transcribing from recordings. The finished product is a graduate who is an asset to any office and who can be given a high degree of responsibility.

"Bards to Business Letters" Is English Department Motto



"Now say that again a little more slowly," Mr. Wayland J. Holley tells a member of his Junior English class, as the group works on speech correction with the tape recorder.

Can you write an excellent business letter? Have you wondered how Shakespeare moves men to tears and laughter?

These are a few of the items taught in Commerce English classes. Under Miss Jane M. Roberts, chairman, the department offers a pleasing variety of courses.

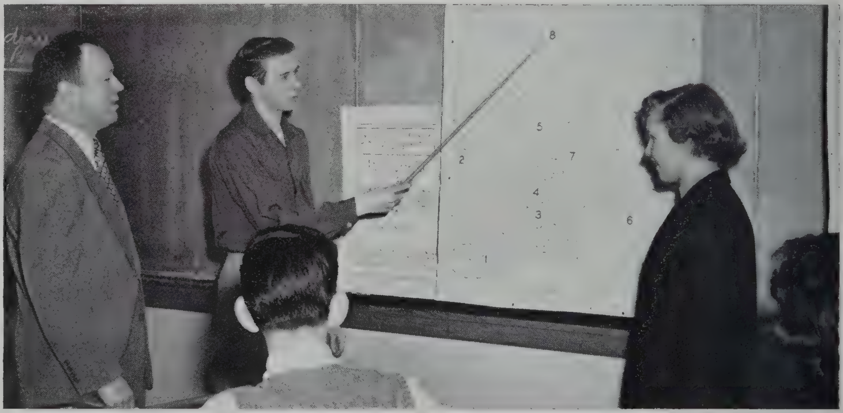
Many classical favorites are represented in Commerce reading lists, among them Silas Marner and Macbeth, which vie for favor with modern works such as Steinbeck's The Pearl and O'Neill's Emperor Jones.

Students satisfy their writing urge in the Journalism class, which produces Commerce, the school paper, while future Daniel Websters get valuable public speaking experience in the Speech class.

Expanding to meet student interests, the department will offer several new courses next year, although details have not yet been announced.

In Social Studies, Colorful Past Lives, Amazing Future Looms

Social Studies class analyzes the political structure of Springfield, while Mr. Bruno R. Rumpal stands ready for questions.



The venerable Abraham Lincoln becomes a vital human being, the romance of Magellan's exploration is a fascinating adventure, the illumination of the Magna Charta shines brightly in the Social Studies Department.

Guided by Chairman Bruno R. Rumpal, instructors weave the past, present, and future together with threads of understanding.

Courses in Modern History suggest causes of and solutions for present problems, while World Geography relates physical environment to man's development. American History concentrates on the United States past, while Modern Problems and Economics do their share in preparing students for good citizenship.

Carefully taught, absorbing perspective understanding and facts, Commerce students leave their history classes, with new understanding and with new hope for a complex world.

Science Department Reveals Earth's Wonders

In a world that has nearly bypassed Flash Gordon with its casual talk of earth satellites and atomic-powered airplanes, the future citizen must have accurate scientific knowledge.

To impart that knowledge to Commerce learners is the job of the Science Department under the leadership of Mr. Harold W. Jones.

Here Commerce students watch the eternal magic of plant growth, examine weaving hydra under microscopes, and dissect the bodies of small animals, as they study Biology, the science of Life.

Then they learn the mysteries of chemical compounds and solutions, make colorful and loud experiments, change water to "wine," and set up weather detectors in that odoriferous but exciting science, Chemistry.

Fascinating also is the study of sound and light, weight and speed and matter, for Physics explains the world around the student, teaches him how to move great weights with small muscles, makes him understand why the sound caused by lightning is heard later than the flash is seen.

In short, the Commerce Science Department does much more than the traditional task of preparing young specialists. It helps all to understand the complex, frightening, and beautiful world that surrounds mankind.

"Alas, poor Yorick," says Gus Penna in the Biology lab. But Barbara Bennett is too busy fitting together this jigsaw of a man to worry.

Language Classes Bring Old World Culture to Students

QUELQUES CATHÉDRALES DE FRANCE

As part of their realistic instruction, students in a French class describe the distinguishing features of the world-famed architecture of French cathedrals. When and if the glorious day comes that they can visit that land, they'll be well prepared not only to appreciate the beauty of buildings, but also to converse fluently with the natives.

The liquid, smooth-flowing French and Spanish languages become a living reality for students who study in Commerce's Foreign Language Department. Not only do these pupils gain a speaking and reading knowledge but they also become familiar with French and Spanish architecture, painting, customs, history, and so forth.

Proficiency is attained by use of the most modern methods of instruction. Students hear and imitate the language as it is spoken by experts on records, which reproduce everyday conversations. Then they practice with the tape recorder, hearing their own accentuations, while the instructors, Miss Helen M. Lynch and Miss Helen G. Flynn, patiently work with them.

Home Economics Course Trains For Happy Living

Mmm . . . They're piping hot, and they're going to taste mighty delicious. It's Miss Ruth Page's Foods II class getting some practical training in the old motto, "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach." And while the class is waiting for the rolls to bake, they can always pass the time studying that gallery of modern art that Miss Page carries around with her.

Attention, young women! Surveys show that the great majority of Commerce girls marry soon after graduation. This is an attractive idea, of course, and it indicates the reason that the Home Economics Department is so important. The Foods course teaches menu planning, budgeting, proper serving, and the latest in cookery. The confidence that comes from having an excellent wardrobe and knowing how to dress properly often results from the Clothing and Dressmaking classes, while the Personality and Etiquette course helps students develop social poise and courtesy.

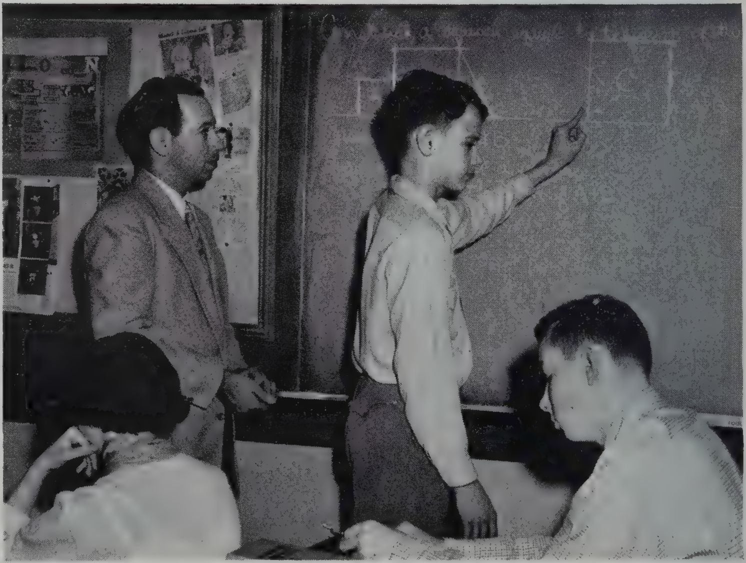
When a young woman has completed work in this department, she will make any young man happy he chose a Commerce graduate to be his life partner!

Mathematics Helps College-Bound, Aids Future Designers

There's an important angle — Get it? — to the study of Geometry and of Algebra too at the High School of Commerce. Sending many of its graduates to excellent colleges, Commerce must meet the high standards of entrance. In the Mathematics department, such requirements are carefully met.

Fundamentals are introduced in the Algebra I course, with equations, graphs, square root, and so forth. Algebra II goes into more advanced phases, including quadratic equations, logarithms, binomial theorem, numerical trigonometry.

Plane Geometry also has a practical value for the future artist, designer, machinist, engineer, and architect.



Student ponders, while Instructor Donald Hatch casts a critical eye on a Geometry problem. It's easy to "construct a square equal to the sum of two given squares"—when you know how. And you find out how in the Commerce Mathematics department.

"Frolic to Fitness" is Physical Education Aim

Health through fun is the motto of both the Boys and Girls Physical Education Departments at the High School of Commerce.

Basketball, wrestling, swimming, track and field are only a few of the offerings for boys, while soccer fundamentals, tumbling, lifesaving, badminton, volleyball, golf, basketball are several others that are part of the extensive program.

For the girls, folk and square dancing are offered, as are also softball, bowling, roller skating, ice-skating. Swimming, tennis, field hockey, basketball, and many others satisfy the desire for exercise and competition.

Both departments also sponsor one of the finest Driver Education Courses in the state, with theoretical and behind-the-wheel training. (See page 111)

Whenever there is sufficient interest in any new sport, Boys Physical Education Director Tom Collins and Girls Director Barbara Richardson and Instructor Lois Piper assist enthusiasts in obtaining equipment and getting competition underway.

That's not a grin — it's a grimace as a determined freshman seizes his classmate in a hammerlock, as a wrestling tournament gets under way.

These girls are the happy participants in the modern dance group of the Girls Physical Education Department.

Art Classes Instill Creative Ability in Color and Design

MUSIC
Mar
26

"Whistle while you work" could very well be the theme song for this creative group of art students, busy planning spring posters.

The study of the sombre tones of Rembrandt and the dancing colors of Seurat, the design of posters and the proper interior decorating harmonies all have their place in the Commerce Art Department.

These elements are found in the Commercial Art, General Art, and Applied Design courses taught by Miss Ruth Marsden. Under her competent direction, students turn to those branches which most appeal to them: pen and ink drawing, montages, water colors, poster creation, dress design, and many others.

Thus they find within themselves, outlets for hidden abilities often beginning the hard but fascinating path that leads to success as an artist.

Musicians Blend Sweet Voices, Bright Instruments

Many a young man or woman has entered the High School of Commerce without knowing a whole note from a hemidemisemiquaver and graduated a talented musician, due to his own efforts and the interest of Director Walter D. Nickerson.

Here the student may find the joy of merging his voice in Gounod's "Pilgrim's Chorus" or blaring out a trumpet note or thumping the big bass drum as the band marches down the field.

Like so many other Commerce scholastic activities, the Music Department offers to students a combination of fun and learning that is remembered by many as always enriching.

These smiling choristers are in the midst of a rehearsal for the Music Festival.

THE CITY LIBRARY
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Musical Activities Draw Students of Room 109

School activities in Room 109 range from library work to after-school roller skating. JUDITH SCHAUER and MARILYN COCCHI are two of the library assistants who aid bewildered students in finding the right books, while the Caduceus staff gained two members in PATRICIA ROBERTS and PAULA ROBINOVITZ. BARBARA SAROCE and MARGUERITE RITCHIE find roller skating their favorite, but MARIE RADWAY, turning stagewise, participates in the Drama Club.

Capers, the school show, also captured quite a few participants from this homeroom. JOANN ROSE, PATRICIA GAWLIK, JEAN ROMITO, MARION QUINN, THERESA SCUDELLARI, BARBARA KENDALL, BEVERLY ROLLEND, and THELMA ROUKEY all gave their time and talents. Musicians are NORMA THOMAS and DOLORES REDD, both members of the band.

Room 109's contributions to the Pep Squad are EUNICE BLACHE and E. GAIL THOMPSON who can be heard cheering the teams on to victory. Sports-minded JEAN SCOTT and CAROL THIVIERGE have participated actively in the Leaders Club. ELEANOR SETTERSTROM adds her voice to the Glee Club, while THERESA REYNOLDS finds the Junior Red Cross her favorite.

All of these diversified interests give the more than 30 girls who constitute room 109 plenty of experiences to swap stories about, while the varying personalities lend flavor to the group also. DOROTHY THURLOW and THELMA ROUKEY are the serene, quiet types, while CAROL THIVIERGE and MARIE RADWAY bubble with energetic talk.

Versatile, studious, fun-loving, 109 is representative of a cross-section of the Junior class.

Sports Enthusiasts Abound in Room 112

Of the many enthusiastic students in Room 112, a number are interested in sports. Vivian Brown can be seen speedily dribbling the basketball downcourt, while Rita Vanotti really can sink that ball. Happily joining the fun are Barbara Chappell and Peggy Cahill.

Roller skating also attracts a large number of joyful girls. Whizzing merrily around the rink go Marilyn Boussy, Nancy Case, and Jane Cannon. Other sports have their enthusiasts, too. Marie Calabrese is certainly a good bowler! In addition, Carol Cantalini and Alice Burt say they have a wonderful time. Field hockey is enjoyed by Janice Hardern and Judy Caserio.

Pro Merito is well represented in this room by Marilyn Broadbent, Janet Tyburski, and Lawrence Crivelli. Music has charms for Carol Campbell, Cynthia Carlson, and Dolores Caputo, who sang with the Glee Club in the Musical Festival.

Bob Axler, Gerald Denesha, and Donald Ferri hail the arrival of spring when they may play baseball again, while the clatter of bowling pins at the alley lets us know that Ellis Goldberg and Donald Duchesne are around. Among the other sports minded people is James Howard, whose favorite diversion is basketball.

Hobbyists abound also in 112. Anthony Gallerani is interested in electrical work, and praising pigeons is George Ferraro's interesting pastime, while Richard Boden finds his electric trains diverting.

Stage presentations occupy several people in 112. Annice Brewer has appeared in dramatic productions, while Lawrence Crivelli is the man atop the assembly hall who operates the spotlight. Another participant on the stage is Vivian Brown, who gave an excellent performance in the Memorial Day program last year.

Music and Art Pass Hours for Juniors in 124

Interesting hobbies and devotion to worthwhile projects occupy the earnest students of Room 124. Sports attract CONNIE CUOCO, JOYCE DWIGHT, BARBARA ELLIS, and WENDY DESROCHERS, while reading draws NANCY STEVENS and BARBARA KING.

Audio hours delight DOROTHY COLLINA and SUSAN ELDREDGE, who collect records for a hobby; the music appeals to ANNETTE STEVENS, CAROL FERNANDEZ, and STEPHANIE STERNALA for dancing purposes. Also a hobbyist is JUDITH EGGLESTON, who collects post cards.

Among the skating enthusiasts in this room are GLORIA FACCHINI, VIRGINIA CONNELLY, PRISCILLA FAIRBANKS, JOYCE SAMBLIN, CHRISTINE CORGNATI, PENELOPE CORDNER, SONJA LISZKA, DIANE COURVILLE, and PHYLLIS DIXON, all of whom whirl regularly around the rink.

Music and art also have their devotees in this room. JOYCE SAMBLIN paints in oils, JOYCE FIELDSTAD and DIANE COURVILLE sing, and SONJA LISZKA riffs up the scale on her accordion.

Serving Commerce here are two earnest workers, CAROLYN DUBUC and BARBARA CONRAD, both of them devoted staff members of Caduceus.

The yearbook has two more loyal workers also in NANCY STEVENS and ANNETTE STEVENS, while NAFIE DENNY has an unusual and rewarding hobby. She works with clubs after school hours and, in March, was given a special award by the Springfield Boys Club for her excellent work.

Pleasant personalities as typified by MARY CORMIER and PRISCILLA FAIRBANKS and smiling faces as represented by JOANN FRENIERE and RUTH DEBASITIS make it clear why this room is a happy one to be in.

Happy, carefree students in Room 204 participate in sports, photography, painting, coin-collecting, archery, corresponding, record collecting, knitting and sewing in their free time. Frances Barton entertains at charity shows with her singing and dancing act, and Annette Bouchard, Joan Bloxam, Jean Borrette, Janet Gardner, Ruth Sheets, Marilyn Taylor make collecting records their favorite hobby. Geradine Albert and Carol Flagg are engrossed in knitting and sewing, while Barbara Borst, Mildred Algire, Elizabeth Begg, Suzanne Blatt, and Rosalind Gamelli are flexing their muscles and vocal cords with sports and musical activities.

Rita Gaspar and Brenda Balboni push the swishing paint brushes against canvases touched with brilliant colors. Barbara Fillion enjoys bending a bow to aim for bullseye on the archery field. The sound of money entrances Anna Fiorentino, so she has entered the coin collecting stage. Judith Ashley is a collector also — not of currency, but of dolls.

Behind other piles of paper, envelopes and stamps you will find Marie Gaboury and Helen Courter who spend their spare time writing letters, while hay is probably in the back pocket of Judy Bonelli who likes horses.

Ambitions are interesting here too. Priscilla Anti and Geraldine Giannetti hope to take dictation and pound the typewriter as ambitious young secretaries, but Vera De Villo must be a little different. Vera wants to be a hotel clerk. Paula Goldblatt takes a special interest in dramatics, while Beverly Blankenship and Joyce Arthur keep the bulbs bursting and the film rolling with their cameras, hoping someday to become photographers.

Drama has charms for at least three members of the room. Paula Goldblatt aided in staging "Bridge and Ballots" for the Massachusetts Teachers Association, while Beverly Blankenship and Frances Barton both were hits in the Drama Club's comedy presentation at a January assembly.

Joyous Spirits Characterize 214B Juniors

Adding their happy spirit to our school are the students in Room 214B. RITA GRASSETTI, RUTH JANSIZIAN, and LEAH JANSIZIAN are all members of the Glee Club, which put on a magnificent performance for the Musical Festival in March.

Also taking part in the Festival was the band, some of whose members were SANDRA STOUGHTON and NANCY STROSHINE.

Other girls in this room, DOLORES JAKUBCZYK, LINDA GUIDETTE, and SUSANNE HEDLUND, are cashiers in the lunchroom, waiting on teachers and students with a happy smile for all.

Another group includes ELAINE GIORDANO, JUDITH GIUSTINA, and JOANN GUMLAW, who take part in the rousing game of basketball with Mrs. Richardson.

Quite a few in 214B go out for bowling. HAPPY KASTRINAKIS, ANN HATCH, PEGGY STEVENS, EDNA DEMING, and VERNA GREEN spend their after-school time at this wonderful sport.

Others in the room have a variety of interests. GLENNIS GREENWOOD and JEAN SZULC would like to take their place in this world as humanitarians, for they want to become nurses. Equally important is the ambition of PAMELA HAWLEY who is considering college in the future. VIRGINIA KELLEY and CAROL JAMROZ wish to be secretaries, which also is important.

Among other interests is roller skating, and swinging around the rink on skates keeps JUDY HEYES busy, while EVELYN JAMES also takes part in a spirited sport, field hockey.

Patrol, Library, Sports Attract Juniors in 222

A good number of the girls in Room 222 serve the High School of Commerce in some way. GLORIA LEVREAULT and DOLORES LAMONTAGNE do their part when they check passes, arrange books, and keep the files up-to-date as library assistants. AGNES MAHARNE, JUDITH MACNEIL, BEVERLY TREMBLAY, and DENISE HUMBERSTON likewise help out as members of the student patrol.

However, when a movie has to be run, FLORINE LEDUC and VIRGINIA MAGNACCA are right on their toes and raring to go. And then too MARION TAYLOR, who is an ardent basketball fan, was elected to serve as captain of the basketball team which played at Tech.

Others have interesting hobbies and ambitions. MARLENE MAGGIO, TERESA LANDERS, JOYCE LEOPOLD, DIANNE LAFRANCIS, and BARBARA LOGUIDICE can hardly wait to get their jobs as office workers or secretaries. Reading holds an interest for DOROTHY KOWALSKI, HELEN KOWAL, and LUCILLE LAKE. Lucille also enjoys listening to her collection of records.

Many amuse themselves as roller skaters. Among the girls who twirl dizzily about the rink are MARY GRIMALDI, BARBARA TETREAULT, MARJORIE LA BORDE, JOAN LETENDRE, SANDRA LEMAR, and JOAN SAVOIT.

Airline hostess or telephone operator, which will it be? That is the question that CECILIA LUPI asks herself. It looks as if the future holds not a dull moment for MARILYN GRELLER either. She chooses acting or dancing for her ambition.

Students of 223 Star in Commerce Activities

Name the activity, and like as not, you'll find that a loyal 223-ite is the backbone of its support. Room 223 is proud to have three girls, Sandra Miller, Mary Milaszewski, and Barbara Groll in Pro Merito, while helping to enforce the school rules are Mary Grochmal and Diana Meisner, members of the Girls Patrol.

Music activities are aided by Doris Markham and Emily Shyloski, who blend their voices in the Girls Glee Club; Binese Mason, Nancy Anne Shea, and Barbara Mailloux play in the school band. Student Council Representatives are Judith Marchetti and Rosemary Shea, and Beverly Mastalerz and Anne Meade are both enthusiastic members of the Pep Squad.

Among the active members of Caduceus is Marilyn McHugh, but Anne Trombley finds Le Foyer her favorite. Eileen Marchand, library assistant, and Mary Ann Miller, Junior Red Cross representative, contribute greatly to their respective organizations. Sports-minded Violet Shaw enjoys after-school basketball, while Barbara McGuy prefers ice skating. Phyllis Spagna and Virginia Grover are members of the after-school roller skating club.

Service representation in this room is typified by Phyllis Mills and Barbara Groll. Phyllis is home-room representative in the Junior Executive Board, while Barbara has been one of the editors of the Junior section of the yearbook and is vice-president of the Junior Red Cross. One of her colleagues on Caduceus is Barbara Mailloux, who was a typist for the publication.

Participating in many musical activities is Judith Mott, while the presentation of Capers, the big show, was aided by Marilyn McHughs, who helped make up the thespians for their parts.

And speaking of music, everyone in the room knows that what Jascha Heifetz is to the violin and Arturo Rubenstein is to the piano, Binese Mason is to the sweet potato — known to the highbrow as the "ocarina."

Athletic 304 Pupils Build Muscle and Skill

Juniors in Room 304 are great participators in both summer and winter sports. Bob Simpson is enthusiastic about many, while Gil Tebaldi likes to kick a soccer ball around the field and Frank Marinaro manages the basketball team. Hunting and fishing are the favorite sports of Everett Morrison.

Among the girls, Jean Moynihan and Nancy Oliver are bowlers, and Beverly Twining, Betty Ann Musgrove, Eileen Mullaney, Edna Newman, Rae Etta Nye, Elaine Paquette, and Linda Pfisterer speedily circle the roller-skating rinks. Meanwhile, Jean Petronino, Bianca Nascembeni, and Judith Peck keep trim by dancing.

Mike Mould, a member of both the basketball and baseball squads, finds that his room associate Jean Petronino is one of the zestful cheerleaders who spurs him on to greater efforts.

There are cheers here too for the United States Navy, for both Rae Etta Nye and Jean Moynihan are talking of becoming Waves after graduating. Norman Levesque has an anticipatory eye on the Army, but that does not stop him from making an excellent extra-curricular record as speaker, Drama Club actor, Capers Master of Ceremonies, and Caduceus editor.

Flame-haired Elaine Paquette adds her name to the thespian's roster also, having appeared in performances at several assemblies sponsored by the Drama Club.

Bookkeeping is the goal of both William Parent and Alan Michalek, but their hobbies now occupy much of their spare time. Bill is a radio amateur; Alan collects exotic stamps. Alice Haines has an interesting ambition, for she wants to be an interior decorating consultant.

The room's Benny Goodman is Francis Nicoli, who plays clarinet in the band, while Luella Nunally is a partisan of "rhythm and blues" music. Velma Parker contributes her singing talent to the Glee Club. Title of Room Photographer goes to Connie Turner, who clicks away behind her camera.

Juniors in 322 Enjoy Sewing and Singing

The ambitious students in room 322 have a variety of interests. Jean Wells, Eleanor Watson, and Rosemary Poellmann enjoy handwork such as sewing.

Music is another of the interests in this room with Edward Waldron, Richard Gallerani, and Paul Ginsberg participating in the chorus, while Jacqueline Veroneau is a member of the Glee Club. Dorothy Williams, Tina Weisbrot, and Lila Wright can be counted also among those who like music, as can Tony Pinzone, who plays the accordion.

Checking passes, opening lockers, and other helpful deeds, are the jobs of Sandra Wells, Barbara Walters, and Rosemary Wheeler, as members of the student patrol. Another diversion of this room is reading with Carolyn Potter, Ann Plumador, Carol Whitney, and Milton Johnson all enjoying themselves doing this.

Among the sportsmen, hunting and fishing are the interests of both David and Donald Antaya. Those who enjoy roller skating are Lorraine Zokos, Cynthia Quinlisk, Joan Warner, Judy Wands, Joyce Pickney, and Dolores Poulin. Both James Langan and Justino Penna have unusual ambitions. Gus would like to be an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; James, a radio or television announcer. Sally Vincent has the unusual hobby of flying.

Room 322 made an important contribution to Capers, the annual musical show. Dorothy Williams won acclaim for her modern dance performance called "Country Style," while Paul Ginsberg appeared with a male quartet. Toward the end of the year, Richie Gallerani made his debut as an actor in the assembly sponsored by the yearbook, giving a creditable performance.

FIELD DAY

Cheers, songs, and laughter fill the air near Pratt field each year in September as Commerce students hold their annual field day.

This year, it was the seniors who shouted joyfully "We've won! We've won," as they ran off with honors in such events at the potato-sack race, the medicine-ball contest, the egg-tossing contest and other events in the "Poor Man's Olympic Games."

Faculty compete in some events, with students as partners, and a spirit of good fellowship prevails, aided by generous servings of hotdogs and cokes.

Frosh "Get the Business" to Begin Commercial Careers

Mr. Carl S. Stone's Freshman girls thrust apples at their homeroom teacher by order of the Seniors at the High School of Commerce (or suffer the consequences!!!)

Chants of "We Love the Seniors; We Love the Seniors," vibrate through the halls . . . a patient Freshman tediously pushes a peanut down the corridor, using only his nose . . . first-year boys parade, grotesquely smeared with lipstick, and dangling long gold earrings.

It's Freshie Day once more — a time when the Seniors relive their own early experiences by doing to others what was done to them. It's all good fun, with laughter and stunts, topped by a hilarious parade of tricks in the school assembly hall.

Senior Rita May Jennings enjoys being fed by Freshie Karen Balland during the Freshie Day lunchroom activities.

Ralph Lewis suffered during his lunch period as MariLou Locke forced him under the table, but he took the punishment in good humor.

Carmine Capuano seems to be the center of attraction while resting comfortably in the trash can. Minor Haskell, Leon Moquin, Joe Joseph and James Denny are readying themselves to pitch the milk containers at poor defenseless Carmine!

Swishing from side to side in their Freshie Day costumes of paper skirts are Tom D'Agostino and Roger Hannigan. Even if it is Freshie Day, these two seem to be having a lot of fun with their hulas.

A dull roar rises in Room 216B as students rush here and there, flashing papers before Miss Elizabeth C. Connell, faculty adviser of Commerce, the school newspaper. It's deadline time!

Here the staff members acquire valuable skills and learn responsibility and co-operation. Here they discover all the joys — and embarrassments—of having one's work on public display. By informing students, Commerce also helps create educated citizens. Events are spotlighted in the lively news columns and sports page, while special columns and editorials present the readers with intelligent viewpoints to consider.

Bandsmen Play Sweet Melodies for Commerce Audiences

The bright sounds coming from the music room are produced by the Commerce Band, comprising twenty-eight members. This year under the direction of Mr. Walter C. Nickerson, the band entertained in February at Forest Park Junior High School, and played in the Commerce auditorium for several assemblies and pep rallies.

One big event was the annual music festival in March which presented the band in marches, classical songs, and popular pieces before a receptive audience. This was a special achievement, since many of the bandsmen have become musicians only since entering Commerce, having been trained by Mr. Nickerson.

"I've got rhythm," hums Josephus Bass as he rolls out a rocking re-bop on the drum.

We can't hear what's coming out, but Don Ainsworth certainly gets "A" for effort on this one.

"Mm-Mm. All together now." This is what you may hear every Tuesday morning before school as the Choir tunes up for another of its mellow renditions. Down come Mr. Walter D. Nickerson's famous hands on the ivories, while the Choir goes through its paces. Here the girls have the joy of making beautiful music together and of obtaining important musical experience.

Several times this year, Mr. Nickerson's baton has waved the girls in on the first note in such activities as Activities Assembly in September, Christmas Assembly, the March Music Festival, the Western Massachusetts Music Festival in May and Senior Commencement Exercises in June. Always their harmony has pleased their audiences.

Patrol Keeps Corridor Decorum, Aids Troubled Students

The roving camera catches the smiles of Beverly Duvall, Senior Lieutenant, and Victor Zancan, Captain, in the doorway of the Patrol Office.

Helping a citizen obey the law — and having him like it; learning service to the community by assisting other students in trouble; those are the qualities given to Commerce students by their patrol experience.

Selected for their qualities of leadership, members perform many important functions. Established at regular posts throughout the school, they help keep order by inspecting student passes, and assist visitors by giving information. The patrol also has the important jobs of opening lockers for forgetful students and of operating a lost and found service.

Supervised by Mr. Anthony J. Serafino, the members are a fun-loving group also. Each year, they participate in a gigantic picnic complete with traditional hot-dogs, soda pop, and ants. Mr. Serafino serves as chief cook, while the students help dispose of hundreds of frankfurters and gallons of soft drinks.

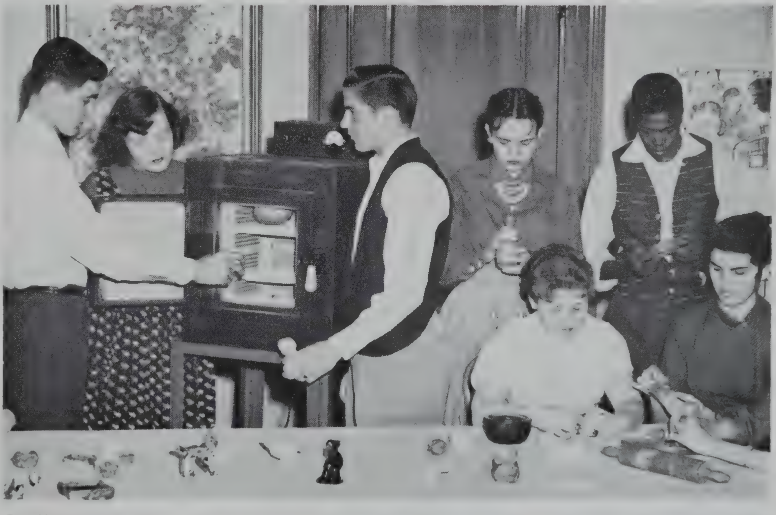
Pottery Club Members Create Useful and Artistic Objects

What's cooking? Not what one would ordinarily expect. Instead of aromatic pastries, the ovens of the Pottery Club produce colorful ceramics. Under the directorship of Miss Ruth Marsden, art instructor, this artistic group makes clay articles, both useful and decorative.

Arlene Flagg is the president of the club, which meets periodically in the art room. The complete process from the molding to baking in the kiln is done by the members. Clay horses, ashtrays, dogs, bowls, pitchers, and figurines are only a few of the finished products.



Joe Ferrendino, Joan Lucier and Vic Zancan place unbaked figures in the kiln while Arlene Flagg and William Holmes examine items to get ideas and Helen Hadenchuck and Ramona Navarro work industriously on little vases.

The highest scholastic honor in Commerce is membership in the Pro Merito Society. To belong to this organization, a student must attain a B plus yearly average.

Good character, especially the quality of responsible leadership, is stressed in the constitution. The members this year have met this requirement by their outstanding participation in every extra-curricular activity.

Besides a junior-senior Christmas social and a Valentine party for the freshmen, Commerce was host to the annual state convention of Pro Merito on May 12, presenting a well-planned program.

General Organization — A Long Name for a Big Job

There's rattle of hundreds of coins and a frantic cry of Help! coming from room 113 in the High School of Commerce. Why, it's Mrs. Helen M. Foote and her crew, working on the new installment of G.O. dues.

"G.O." stands for "General Organization," the collector of annual dues from the student body, which has a better than 95% record of participation over the past five years. These funds support many school functions. In return, students receive reduced prices for athletic games; dances; Capers, the annual school show; Caduceus, the yearbook, and many others.

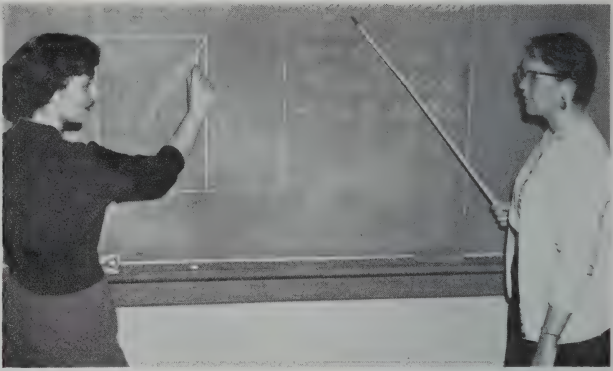
The joy — and responsibility — of working with others are two contributions that Commerce makes to students who work on Caduceus, the yearbook. The work of Caduceus is never finished, for even when the book has "gone to bed," and is about to be published, the staff is already busy training next year's crop of writers, artists and advertising solicitors.

The editorial staff plans the content and format of the book and does the texts, while the business staff obtains advertising and handles financial matters.



"Here's how it's done," Arlene Flagg says as she shows Marilyn McHugh how to enlarge photos.

. . . . . Page Designers and Artists to Make a Yearbook

The makeup and art staffs have important jobs too. The former plan the layouts for pages, fitting pictures and texts into the complex pattern; while the latter devise illustrations and produce a cover design.

All the groups find that their work of many hours repays them well. It is rewarding for the staff when its book wins a first-place rating at the Columbia Scholastic Press Association judging, or when the advisers award pins to deserving seniors, or when a trip is made to the University of Massachusetts campus. But Caduceus staff members learn that the greatest reward of all is in the happiness of a job well done.

Songs, Comedy, "Mystery" Entertain Students as . . .

Happy people know how to relax and laugh and Commerce students certainly did that at Capers this year. The High School of Commerce was invaded on December 2 and 3 by handsome Martian Ralph Britten, who discovered that a dress rehearsal of the Commerce Capers was being held. The purpose of his visit was to find new ideas for entertainment on his planet. Bob Cloonan, master of ceremonies, agreed to let him watch the rehearsal. To confuse the situation, Pinhead, played by Richard Pond, was obsessed with the idea that the man from outer space had come to kidnap some of the glamorous girls in the cast.

An additional feature of the show was a mystery faculty quartet. Because of their superb disguises, a prize of $10 was given to the student identifying the song birds and writing in 25 words or less, "I liked Commerce Capers because. . . ." The winning contestant was a junior, Antonetta Basile, who identified the quartet as Messrs. Holley, Alminas, Nickerson and Michaels.

The stage crew, under the direction of Neil Abrahamson, had the stage colorfully lighted for the show, and the cooperation of the various committees with Co-directors Raymond J. Montagna and Walter D. Nickerson, made it possible for this year's Capers to live up to its great tradition.

. . . Capers Scores Again in Tradition of Stage Hits

Guess again. Jimmy Durante? No. Mr. Faculty, better known as Norman Levesque.

Council Learns the Fun—and Work of Self-Government

One of the greatest gifts a person can receive is the art of conducting himself intelligently through self-discipline.

This ability, fundamental in a democracy, is one of the greatest values Commerce offers to its students. The Student Council, functioning under Faculty Adviser Bruno R. Rumpal, provides valuable experience in self-government.

Typical of the work of the council is the conduct of the Freshman elections by the Senior group, which arranges for the contests all the way from political rallies to vote-counting.

Classifying Books Trains These Future Librarians

Cataloguing works, maintaining order in the library, checking library attendance, filing pamphlets — all these are among the important responsibilities of the library assistants. By serving Commerce in this useful function, the assistants not only learn how to carry out orders, but under the supervision of Miss Mae G. Anderson, they also gain important knowledge that may someday help them in entering library work. Like so many other Commerce students, the library assistants give something to their school, and in return, gain from their gift.

Profiting by their nearness to books, many of the library assistants have used spare moments to enrich themselves at the library's great fount of knowledge. They are encouraged not only to make use of the books themselves, but to spread the word among the students as to the joy of reading.

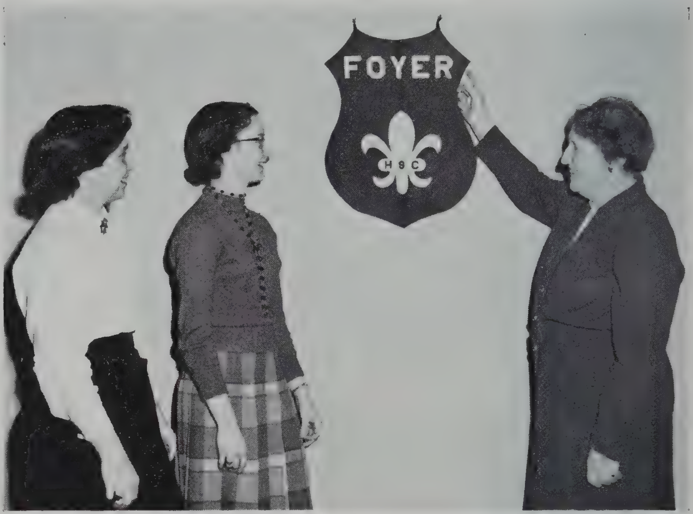
Le Foyer Emphasizes French Language and Culture

Echoes of French songs ring out, as members of Le Foyer hold their monthly meeting. But singing songs is only one phase of Le Foyer activities. Under the direction of Miss Helen G. Flynn, Le Foyer promotes knowledge of French culture.

Often the meetings are appropriate to the season, but always with emphasis on French customs. In the past, there have been dramatic scenes, films, speakers, indoor and outdoor picnics, and French games and songs.

One of the outstanding features this year was the informative talk given by Mrs. John Alix, a French war bride, in September. Mrs. Alix told of her experiences as a worker in the French underground during World War II. Another high light of the year was the showing by Miss Mason of slides of her trip to France.



Miss Helen G. Flynn explains meaning of Le Foyer to Elizabeth Janik, president, and Diana Sojka, secretary.

Kumtux Stimulates Fellowship, Loyalty, and Ideals

Leah Jansizian, left, and Irene Willette place the Kumtux feather on prospect Judy Clemens, sitting: while Cathy Wilder and Ruth Jansizian ready their feathers for other candidates.

Kumtux promotes good fellowship among beginning classes, stimulates loyalty to the school, and preserves the ideals represented in Commerce's motto "Industry and Integrity."

This year in addition to the monthly parties, held at the girls' homes, a farewell supper party was held at the school in May to honor seniors. The group had a picnic scheduled for June.

The girls also have monthly business meetings. In charge of these are Irene Willette, president; Judy Clemens, vice-president; Katherine Wilder, secretary; and Leah Jansizian, treasurer. The meetings are supervised by Miss Helen M. Lynch, the adviser.

Students Learn Audio-Visual Skills to Promote Learning

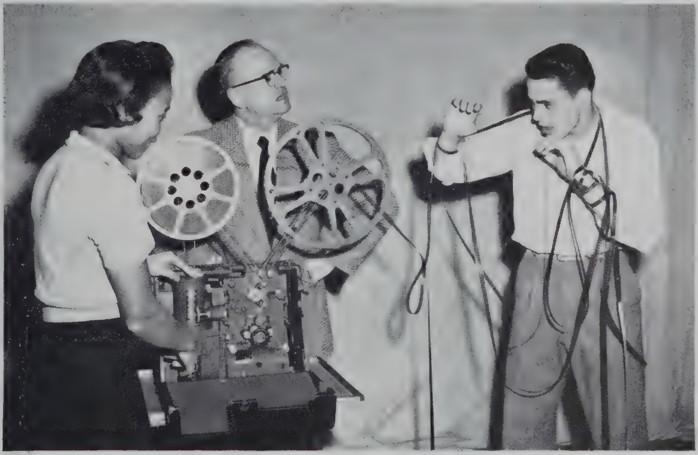
BELOW — "Testing, one, two, three, four," calls Judith Bailey, as LEFT TO RIGHT, Diana Sojka, Sandra Wells, and Rosemary Poellmann ready the amplifying system for an assembly.



"Hey, stop the machine — it's choking me!" cries Donald Heyliger to Evelyn Stewart as something goes wrong with the projector. Mr. Jones is standing there aghast. "————!" You fill in the blank space for what he said.

"Lights out!" calls the operator. The projector rolls, light flashes on the screen, the picture emerges and the sound rings out. Students in Mr. Anthony J. Serafino's Salesmanship Class watch, fascinated, as a striking color film demonstrates latest techniques in selling through attractive packaging.

It's another example of education through seeing and hearing, in room 231, the main projection room, under the direction of Mr. Harold W. Jones and his student assistant Rosemary Poellmann.

While its members gain important training that could lead to hobbies and careers, the group contributes greatly to the school's educational effort.

Drama Club Brings Laughs and Chills in Play Parade

College boy Paul Ginsberg greets big brother Richard Pond as Mother Louise Territo and Girl friend Frances Barton look on approvingly in the Drama Club play "Ringing in the Groom."

An active year brought important experience to Commerce actors and excellent entertainment to Commerce audiences as the Drama Club unfolded its 1955 repertory.

On Friday, January 14, the school building vibrated with laughter as the group presented at an assembly, the comedy Bringing in the Groom.

Lois Stone was the plotting "Grannie," while George, her favorite grandson was skilfully portrayed by Richard Pond, and his girl friend Ruth was convincingly presented by Frances Barton. Adding to the success were Louise Territo as the snobbish clubwoman, RitaMay Jennings, the cat-loving spinster; Paul Ginsberg, a happy-go-lucky college boy; Ann Spaulding, the lovely daughter; Beverly Blankenship, the wisecracking maid.

The play was directed by Lois Stone, assisted by Marie Radway, with Norman Levesque as stage manager. Assistance was given by Faculty Adviser Herbert Michaels.

The Drama group presented Bridge and Ballots on March 19 at the Sheraton-Kimball hotel before the Massachusetts Teachers Association. Taking roles were Donald Ainsworth as a judge, and Lois Stone, Marie Radway, Susan Petelle, and Patricia Humphries as teachers. Richie Gallerani was stage manager, Paula Goldblatt and Judith Bailey were prompters, while Ann Spaulding was assistant to the director. Mr. Michaels.

As yearbook press time neared, the organization was preparing its big show — "Class Play Night" for June.

"Don't make fun of cats, young woman!" bawls RitaMay Jennings as the crabbed aunt, while Ann Spaulding recoils and Beverly Blankenship awaits further developments in "Ringing in the Groom."

Stage Crew Move in Fantastic Back-Stage World

Howard Fay is alert for the curtain closings and openings.

Elizabeth Janik operates the slide viewer, Sandra Wells hails the cue and Barbara Walters selects slides.

The audience sits hushed, expectant. The footlights flash on, as the curtain rustles back to reveal a modern living room. The play's on!

But as the watchers have attention fixed on the actors, a drama is going on back-stage also, for there a student waves a hand and his co-worker throws levers on the complex electrical board to create shadings and colors, while on the side, a sound-effects man awaits a cue, and when it comes, rings a telephone bell, or spins a recording of fog horns or cranks a siren.

Four times this year in important productions, the stage crew has shown its skill: at Capers, the annual variety show in December; at the Drama Club assembly held in February; at the Music Festival in March; and at Class Play Night on June 3 and 4.

Each time, the members have demonstrated the ability to co-operate with one another, the accurate timing, and the highly-developed sense of responsibility they have attained with Faculty Advisor William W. Wilder.

Ticket Sellers Help Reduce Expenses for Classmates

Americans pride themselves on service to the community, and each year a large group of Commerce students, under the supervision of Placement Director G. Donald Melville, train themselves early for doing their bit by assisting the Hampden County Tuberculosis Association.

Working industriously at Association Headquarters on State Street, the Commerce students use the skills they have acquired in school, typing thousands of envelopes and letters, donating their work to fight disease.

Jr. Red Cross Aids Defy Fire, Storm, Tornado to Help Victims

The American Junior Red Cross helps create well-adjusted people, for those who do its work have the joy of making a contribution, and those who receive from it are aided to begin life anew.

The work of this group has gone on throughout the year. In December, the members were hosts to the High School Council in the Commerce clubroom. Christmas stockings were wrapped and sent to foreign countries and members participated in the International Art Program later in that month.

With but one boy returned from last year's varsity squad, the Commerce basketball team won two games, lost 13. However, defensive rebounding was good, ballhandling was fair, and defensive play improved steadily all season.

The Raiders were hampered by inability to score consistently and lack of height. Jim Howard led the scoring parade with 153 points, followed by Mike Mould with 127 points, and freshman Don Heyliger with 125 points.

Vic Zancan, who netted 100 points, proved to be a key man in the Raiders' attack. High individual scorer for one game was Jim Howard, who scored 26 points in a losing cause against Monson. Jim also attained All-City Honorable Mention.

Freshman basketball again returned to High School of Commerce for the 1955 season after a year's absence due to lack of manpower. The team's high scorers were Ersing with 154 points and Calvanese with 142. Calvanese also took the season's high scoring record for points in one game with a total of 20. At an assembly on March 15, the players received letters including Captain George Noonan and Manager Roger Hannigan. This year's squad excelled in good sportsmanship and teamwork.

Varsity Soccer Men Win Four Games, Lose Five, Tie Three

Robert Cloonan, facing camera, and Vic Zancan do their bit to win a game.

With Antaya, Caron, Casseles, Dumas, and Zancan as the only returning regulars, the High School of Commerce opened its 1954 soccer campaign on September 23, by losing to a strong Ludlow team 2 - 0. Then on September 24, the Raiders lost to Monson 3 - 1. Commerce scored early when Tom D'Agostino drilled in a hard shot, but the Raiders were outplayed the rest of the game. On September 28, the team began the Interschool campaign by losing to Tech 3 - 2. Don Antaya and D'Agostino scored.

The Raiders scored their first victory of the season on September 30 by defeating Cathedral 2 - 0, with Vic Zancan and D'Agostino tallying for Commerce. On October 5, they lost a heartbreaking 3 - 2 overtime game to Trade. Commerce ended the first round of play by losing to Classical 2 - 1.

October 10 marked the start of the second of play with the booters tieing Monson 3 - 3 as Antaya pulled off the "hat trick". On October 14, the team scored one of the biggests upsets of the season by defeating Tech 3 - 2, as Don Antaya scored twice with D'Agostino getting the third tally. The Commerce kickers then beat Cathedral 1 - 0 on October 19.

October 21 saw the Raiders tie Trade 0 - 0 and then Classical 0 - 0 and then Classical 0 - 0 on October 26. Ending their 1954 campaign, the squad defeated West Springfield 2 - 0 and wound up with a record of four wins, five losses, and three ties. The West Springfield game marked the fourth straight shutout for a great goalie, Charlie Casseles, and was also his fifth of the season.

JV Squad Gives Hard Fight Against Tough Antagonists

The Commerce Junior Varsity soccer team started off its 1954 season in September with a total of 17 boys, all freshmen. The team had a full schedule and everyone who came out played at least one half of every game. During the season the team played a total of seven games.

The Raiders defeated Classical 2 - 0, West Springfield 2 - 1, and 4 - 3. But the Commerce Junior Varsity team was defeated by such able opponents as Cathedral 0 - 2, Tech 0 - 1, Classical 0 - 3, and Tech 1 - 3. In spite of these losses the team showed good sportsmanship and always played its best. Although the season only lasted two months, the team improved greatly on passing and positions. This improvement will be invaluable to those who go on to the varsity team next fall.

Baseball Team Smacks Last Five Opponents for .500 Season

The baseball team had a very successful season in 1954. The Raiders had a five-game win streak at the end of the season, giving a High School of Commerce baseball team its first .500 season since the late 1930's. Waving big sticks for the Commerce nine were Bob Belli, Art Caron, and freshman Mike Mould, who set a new season's high for Commerce batters by hitting at a terrific .471 clip. Freshman Bob Simpson, who won four games, set a new post-war high for pitchers. Along with Bob, Jerry Denesha also excelled, pitching a three-hitter against Tech, for the only win in the Interschool League. This Tech win was achieved by one hit, a bases-loaded double by Scotty Ross. Junior Art Caron and Senior Bob Belli made the Republican's all-city first team, while Mike Mould attained honorable mention. The team was very alert, missing very few signals during the season and playing very capable ball under the leadership of Captain Hank Clay.

ROW 4—Lottie Koziara, Helen Kozacka, and Irene Willette.

One of the most popular sports for girls is bowling, which begins in January and ends in March. This year, 35 girls were on hand regularly to make the joyful clonking sound of pins spinning around for a spare or a strike.

High scorers were Helen Kozaczka, Irene Willette, and June Rae, all of whom had averages of 90 or better.

Commerce girls won the city trophy in 1953 and 1954, but in this year's tournament in March, the team lost after a hard battle.

Mary Lou Freeman, FOREGROUND, and Margaret Archambault let 'em fly at the same instant.

Chin set in determined lines, a bowler hurls a straight one.

Mermaids Swim Gracefully in Water Ballet

Commerce girls splash playfully in the Trinity Pool each Tuesday after school, but their swimming is purposeful also, as they learn water safety and life-saving techniques.

As a specialty, the mermaids learn the delightful synchronization of forming symmetrical patterns for water ballet. Too, they are indoctrinated in water acrobatics and diving.

The swimming practice also brings a healthy glow to cheeks, and, as one enthusiast observes, "You seem to leave all your worries behind you."

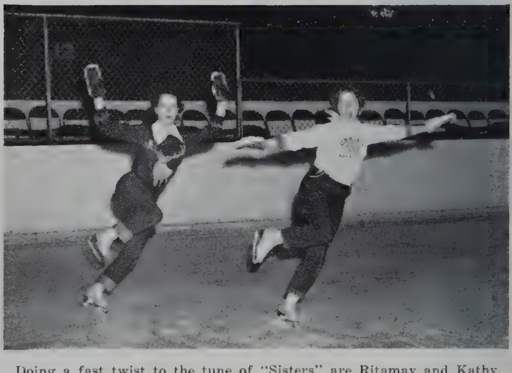
Twenty-five Commerce damsels pirouetted, swooped, and whirled each Tuesday afternoon from January until March at the Eastern States Coliseum. Combining with girls from Tech and Classical, the group made a pretty picture with colorful costumes, shining skates, and red cheeks.

Continuous improvement was made with the assistance of Miss Lois Piper, Physical Education teacher, and by the end of the season, several girls were reputed to be thinking about joining the Icecapades.



Doing a fast twist to the tune of "Sisters" are Ritamay and Kathy Jennings.

Roller Skating Makes Life One Happy Whirl

The Commerce trio prancing the polka includes Sandra Miller, Joanne Rose, and Barbara Conrad.

From early in November until late December. twelve Commerce girls took lessons in roller skating. The girls had a private teacher from Boston, who taught them waltzes, tangos, and mambos every Wednesday after school. The girls have taken pride in learning dance steps on skates. While achieving graceful and complex spins and dips, the skaters have also had gentle, but healthful exercise sessions. They're now ready to go about in the very best circles!

Doing a beautiful swandive is Margaret Archambault.

Girls Athletic Association Plans Exciting Events

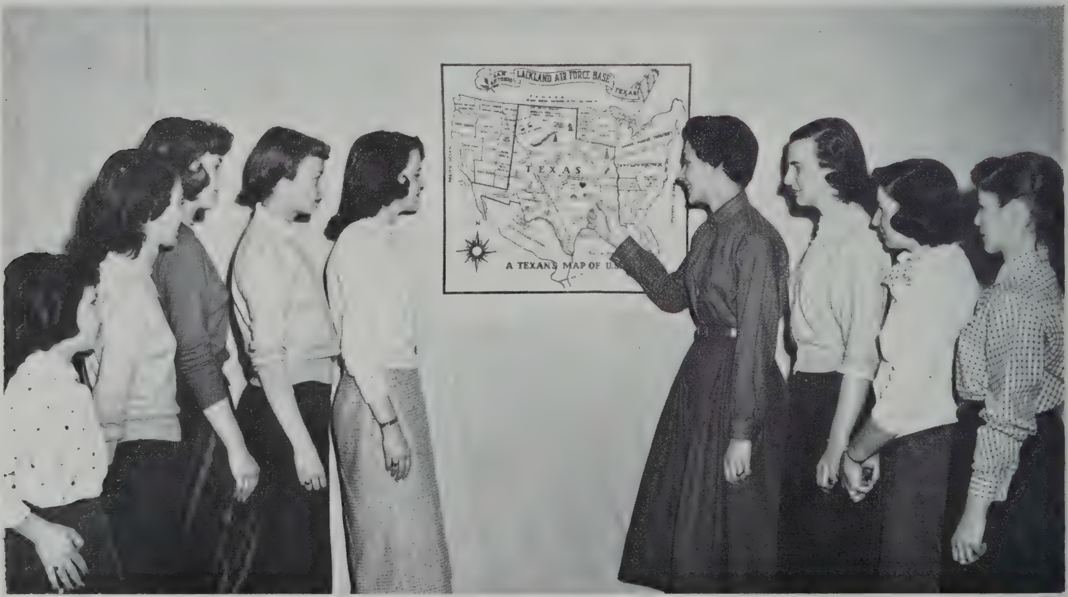
If it's a function of the Girls Physical Education department, the chances are strong that the Girls Athletic Association has played an important part in sponsoring it.

Meeting with Mrs. Barbara Richardson, the adviser, once a month, the GAA group has been responsible for, or aided in the recent past such functions as the G.O. Dance, Snow Swirl, Record Hop.

Four girls from each of the three classes are elected to the organization in April.



Wishing they were doing spring training in the South are, LEFT TO RIGHT—Patricia Bernard, Terry Vecchiarelli, Maureen Scott, Diana Meisner, Peggy Cahill, Judy Marchetti, Judy Giustina, Frances Percolia, and Dolores Caputo.
